

As far as holidays go, Independence Day is just not as funny as Halloween, Christmas or Thanksgiving. I'm basing this statement on the small number of 4th. of July jokes that appear on the internet.

But as summer approaches, and those cold weather holidays are a distant memory, the Devil has to make do with the jokes we have at hand. So, here are some of the funniest 4th of July jokes sent in by kids from all over the country:

C.I.A. JOB

A college graduate applied for a job at the Central Intelligence Agency. Together with several other applicants, he was given a sealed envelope and told to take it to the fourth floor.

He couldn't help but wonder what was inside but he couldn't check it because of the other people in the elevator.

His curiosity got the better of him when the elevator opened on the 4th floor. He snuck away to an empty hallway, looked both ways to make sure no one else was around and opened the envelope with his pen knife in a way that no one would suspect.

Inside there was a message that read, "You're our kind of person. You're hired. Report to the fifth floor."

I finally understand why American Bald Eagles are always photographed from the side 🤔
