

Two nicely dressed ladies happened to start up a conversation while waiting for their flights from the JFK Airport. The first lady was an arrogant New York City woman married to a wealthy man. The second was a well-mannered, elderly woman from the South.

When the conversation got around to children, the NYC woman started by saying, "When my first child was born, my husband built a beautiful mansion for me."

The lady from the South commented "Well, isn't that precious?"

The first woman continued, "When my second child was born, my husband bought me a beautiful Mercedes-Benz."

Again, the lady from the South commented, "Well, isn't that precious?"

The first woman continued boasting, "Then, when my third child was born, my husband bought me this exquisite diamond bracelet."

Yet again, the Southern lady commented, "Well, isn't that precious?"

The first woman then asked her companion, "What did your husband buy for you when you had your first child?"

"My husband sent me to charm school," declared the old Southern lady.

"Charm school?" the first woman cried, "Oh, my God! What on earth for?"

The Southern lady responded, "Well, for one thing, instead of saying, 'Who gives a shit?' I learned to say, 'Well, isn't that precious?'"

"I love how New York is so multi-cultural. I wish I was ethnic. Cause if you're Hispanic and you get angry, people are like, 'He's got a Latin temper.' But if you're a white guy and you get angry, people are like, 'That guy's a jerk.'" comedian Jeff Gaffigan

Mrs. Smith, the biology teacher, was very fond of fish. She was also rather deaf, which was great for the kids in her class. "What Mrs. Smith needs," said one of her colleagues, "is a herring-aid." Sally S., Pennsauken, NJ

Two racehorses are in the stable. One says to the other, "You know, before that last race—"

"The one that you won?" asks the other horse.

"Yeah; before that last race, I felt a pinch in my hindquarters."

The other horse says, "Funny, I felt a pinch in my hindquarters before the race that I won."

A dog walking by says, "You idiots; you're being doped. They're injecting you with a drug to make you run faster!"

One horse turns to the other and says, "Holy shit, check that out... a talking dog!"

FIRST

DAY OF
 first grade

Timmy was excited about his first day at school. So excited in fact, that only a few minutes after class began, he realized that he desperately needed to go to the bathroom. So, Timmy raised his hand politely to ask if he could be excused. Of course, the teacher said yes, but asked him to be quick.

Five minutes later Timmy returned, looking more desperate and embarrassed. "I can't find it," he admitted.

The teacher sat Timmy down and drew him a little diagram to where he should go and asked him if he will be able to find it now. Timmy looked at the diagram, said "yes" and goes on his way.

Well, five minutes later he returned to the class room and says to the teacher, "I can't find it."

Frustrated, the teacher asked Bobby, a boy who has been at the school for a while, to help him find the bathroom. So, Bobby and Timmy go together and five minutes later they both return and sit down at their seats. The teacher asks Bobby, "Well, did you find it?" Bobby is quick with his reply, "Oh sure, he just had his boxer shorts on backwards."
