An elderly couple had been shopping at a supermarket, and the wife decided to steal a can of pears. The inevitable happened and she was caught. Upon her court date, the judge asked her what she had stolen.

“Your Honor, I stole a can of pears.”

The judge replied, “How many pears were in the can?”

She said, “Four.”

The judge then said, “I will sentence you to four days in jail.”

Her husband stood up behind her and replied, “Your Honor, she also stole a can of peas.”

The other night, my wife and I were going out for dinner.

She put on eyebrow pencil, eye shadow, eyeliner, eyelashes, mascara, toner, blush and lipstick, then turned to me and said, “Does this look natural?”

I had parked my car at the supermarket and was walking past an empty cart when I heard a woman ask, “Excuse me, did you want that cart?”

“No,” I answered. “I'm only after one thing.”

As I walked toward the store, I heard her murmur, “Typical male.”

Prosecutor: Did you kill the victim?

Defendant: No, I did not.

Prosecutor: Do you know what the penalties are for perjury?

Defendant: Yes, I do. And they're a hell of a lot better than the penalty for murder.

Hey DEVILer... I don’t get it... Sometimes my phone will ring at 2 in the morning, and my wife’ll push me and go, “Who’s the hell is calling at this time in the morning?”

And I say, “How the hell do I know...! If I knew that we wouldn’t need the damn phone! .... Now answer it.. it’s on your side.”
